

Short bio: Dr Libby Swanepoel

Dr Libby Swanepoel is a Lecturer in Nutrition and Dietetics, and Program Coordinator for the Bachelor of Nutrition at the University of the Sunshine Coast. Libby works across food systems leveraging nutrition sensitive agriculture for global development and improved nutrition and health outcomes. Her interests include food and nutrition security, community capacity building, social inclusion and gender equality. Libby is a skilled qualitative researcher with expertise in socio-economic evaluation. She currently has projects across the Indo-Pacific region, including Kiribati, Samoa, Solomon Islands and Indonesia.